“We’re excited to be building a new state-of-the-art, world-class campus at Legacy West in Plano that will house more than 6,000 of our employees – roughly half of our total population in North Texas. Our new multi-building campus will make it easier for our employees to collaborate in providing outstanding service to customers and clients around the world. But this is so much more than buildings – it’s really about giving our people the opportunity to work together across multiple business lines, build a career and truly fulfill their potential. The Legacy West development in Plano provides room for expansion and amenities that will help us attract and retain employees. We’re looking forward to becoming part of this great community.

More than 12,000 JPMorgan Chase (JPMC) employees work in North Texas, making our bank one of the region’s top employers. With about 25,000 employees statewide, Texas has the greatest number of JPMC employees of any state outside of New York. Our bank and North Texas go back 100 years together. In some ways, that was a different world. But some things haven’t changed. Banking is all about building relationships, serving the community and having a clear vision for the future.”
