President/CEO Head of Region, North America
Ericsson

“Ericsson chose Plano as our North American headquarters back in 2001 because we saw the potential for the city as a home for high tech companies,” said Angel Ruiz, president and CEO of Ericsson North America. “As Ericsson has grown tremendously over the last 15 years, we have watched Plano grow just as fast around us, becoming a hub for technology and innovation in North Texas. We have worked closely with city officials through the years, as Plano has proved itself to be a business-friendly city with a clear vision of its future. Ericsson is proud to call Plano home for our North America operations.”
